PASSING OF NORA WEBER.

STRONG WOMAN OF THE NORTH END AT THE POOR FARM.

Picturesque Career Was Brought to n Ignominious End When She Went "Over the Hills to the Poorhouse."

Nora Weber, the "strong woman" of the forth end, who has been the terror of the Tenderioin for many years, went "over the hills to the poorhouse" yesterday, and a picturesque career is closed. Time was when Nora was held in judicious respect by every man who wore the uniform kansas City patrolman. The "shortstop" bell at Central police station has rung countless times to summon a detail of "the finest" to subdue Nora in one of her tantrums. Whenever the bell rang with an extra note of urkency, the shortstop knew it meant Nora Weber, and every man on the North end squad heaved a sigh of relief when she was sent to the workhouse. Fortunately for the officers, Nora was a guest of the city about two-thirds of the time. The police always looked forward with apprehension to the expiration of her sentence, and happy was the officer who got his two days layoff at that time. As Dr. Jekyll said of Mr. Hyde, when the doctor quaffed the fatal transforming decocion after a long period of upright living in his own proper form: "My devil had been long caged, and he came out roaring." It did not take a very long period of incarceration for Nora Weber to come out furious, and that first night of her liberty always passed into the history of the annals of that week as the liveliest night of the month.

Nora's Kansas City career began about Kansas City patrolman. The "shortstop" of that week as the liveliest night of the month.

Nora's Kansas City career began about six years ago, when she left Leavenworth, Kas., where she had long reigned, and, sighing for wider fields, invaded Kansas City and began the victorious and pestiferous career which ended yesterday, when the county court ordered her sent to the poor farm as a county charge.

Nora Weber went under the name of "Daisy Duprez" in Leavenworth. Long years ago she came from Paris, and never cuite got her tongue clear around the intricacles of the English language. She was a famous circus rider in her early days, and was once a very beautiful woman.

Henry Rollins and Jasper Kincaid were also sent to the poor farm.

No one in these latter years, however, would have recognized in "Mile. Duprez, the graceful and daring equestrienne." the wretched wreck known as Nora Weber. Mony years ago she was a star performer in John Robinson's circus, and many a crowded tent has rung with applause for her feats as a horsewoman.

Nora Weber has a husband and child somewhere. She always claimed she left her husband because he went with other women. Of her child she rarely spoke.

DARRAGH CASE TO-MORROW. Trial of the President of the Wrecked Kansas City Savings Bank Will

Be Taken Up. The trial of J. C. Darragh for wrecking the Kansas City Safe Deposit and Savings bank, which went to the wall with such disastrous results in July, 1893, will begin at Independence to-morrow. Darragh was president of the concern. Elmer C. Sattley was cashler. He was tried about two years was cashler. He was tried about two years ago and sentenced to a ridiculously short term in the penitentiary. After he had served a small part of his sentence Governor Stephens, who was once a banker, pardoned him, and he immediately left the country before he could be brought back here and tried on one of the numerous indictments that now stand against him. The trial of Sattley occupied about nine weeks and was prosecuted by Marcy K. Brown, who made a strong fight for the state. Prosecutor Lowe thinks he can get through with the Darragh case in three weeks. Darragh will be defended by Major Warner and John O'Grady.

THERE IS NO CONFLICT.

County Counselor Reed Renders an Opinion in an Important Matter.

At the request of Assessor C. J. Bower, County Counselor Reed yesterday rendered an opinion in an important matter relating to the collection of taxes from national banks. The United States law declares banks. The United States law declares that shareholders of national bank stock must be named in the return made to the agressor, but provides also that the state legislatures may prescribe regulations for the collection of the tax. The Missouri statutes declare that the shareholders need not be named.

Assessor Bower was informed that the Missouri National bank would resist the collection of taxes, amounting to nearly $5,000, on the ground that the national bank act had not been complied with, in that shareholders were not named. Mr. Bower requested an opinion from the county counselor, who decided that there was no conflict between the federal and Missouri statutes.

Colyer Bros. Come In for a Little Favoritism at the Hands of County Court.

Colyer Bros., who had the contract for macadamizing the Independence and Lee's Summit road, came in yesterday for a little courtesy at the hands of the county court similar to that extended to Boss John May a few weeks ago. The court extended his contract from the end of the original job to the Chicago & Alton tracks, without the formality of advertising. Judge Stone voted against the extension, holding that the law is explicit in demanding the advertisement and letting by contract of all county work.

The court did not have a chance to pass on the charges of incompetency preferred by A. J. Hornbuckle against Road Overseer J. F. Greenwood, of district No. 5. Mr. Hornbuckle dismissed the charges,

RIEGER SPRINGS A SURPRISE Unearths a Law Which Does Not Pequire a Year's Residence for Divorce.

Attorney J. C. Rieger, who represented C. H. Ladd in his suit for divorce from Edna W. Ladd, sprung a surprise in Judge Gates' court when he quoted section 45:30 of the Revised Statutes of 1839 to show that a year's residence in Missouri is not always necessary before a divorce can be secured. Judge Gates had to decide the print well taken and granted the divorce.

The law provides that a year's residence is not necessary if the acts complained of are committed in this state. This makes it still easier to get divorces, as nine out of ten applicants complain that they were beaten or deserted or otherwise victimized in this state or else that they have lived here more than a year. An applicant for a divorce coming from another state could not get a divorce within a year if the acts of which he complained were committed in the state from which he came. Gates' court when he quoted section 45.3

Three records have been broken at the has done the largest business of any ordinary month in its his cry; the postoffice has handled a greater number of special delivgle month, and the customs office shows the the records of the office. The cash receipts at the postoffice will show a falling off from last month, but a substantial increase over the corresponding month last year. Last month the postoffice broke the record. Last month the postoffice broke the record.

The cash receipts at the internal revenue office will reach more than $47,000, which is about $4,000 increase over the record of the preceding month and more than $8,000 increase over the record of the preceding month and more than $8,000 increase over the corresponding month of 1896. Excepting the inflated receipts of each June, when annuhi license fees are paid, the record is the best in the history of the service here and is a faithful reflection of the state of business in articles that come under the revenue regulations. The business started out strong at the beginning of the month and has gained each day steadily. The outlook for the winter season is the best, as all lines of revenue goods are active and continually enlarging.

Collector Withers will begin what he expects to be his last month as collector tomorrow, and he is hopeful of having a still larger business for that time. Even if the business will but hold its own he will be able to turn over to his successor an office doing nearly double the business shown when he took charge four years ago. The business for September amounted to $44,028, and for August 1805 $200. fice doing nearly double the business shown when he took charge four years ago. The business for September amounted to $44,028, and for August was $29,233. He hopes to make it $50,000 for the coming month.

The postoffice cash will be about $47,000, It was over $46,000 last evening, and there is always a good business on Sundays, especially at the close of the month. Last month the cash broke all records and reached $49,350. It was a phenomenal month and the boom was without a satisfactory and the boom was without a satisfactory explanation at any time. It was not an explanation at any time. It was not anticipated that the business would continue at the same rate of increase.

The number of special delivery letters delivered in the city for the month will be over 3.500. Five hundred were sent out from Station A office and 3.000 from the main office. This is more than 500 increase over the record of any month at the main office. The number has been so great that the force of special delivery boys has been kept on the jump.

In the customs department the exportation of refined lead ran far away from anything previously done in the office. The records show that 2,306,794 pounds of the product were shipped abroad during the month. The value of the exported product was about $50,000.

THESE STRIPES AN HONOR. Time of Service of Letter Carriers Will Herenfter Be Indicated by Stripes or Letter. Assistant Postmaster Scidlitz yesterday norning announced to the letter carriers that the department had authorized hi to have service stripes placed on the coats of the carriers, showing their time of service. The authority came Friday night and ice. The authority came Friday night and the stripes will be donned as soon as they can be secured and attached to the uniforms of the men.

One stripe will be worn for each five years of service in the department. The stripes are to be of black braid, three-quarters of an inch wide, put on with white stitches just back of the wrist on the sleeve. #### FLOWER SHOW THIS WEEK. Chrysanthemums and Many Varieties of Other Flowers on Exhibition in the Home Products Building. Great preparations are being made for the third annual chrysanthemum and flower show of the Kansas City Florists' federal building during the month which club, which will be held in the Home Prod-ends to-day. The internal revenue office ucts' show building, 1221-23 Main street, from November 3 to 6 inclusive. All the indications point to the most successful show yet held, for the conditions certainly favor success. Chrysanthemums were never so abundant or linely grown as this year, and those who delight in the fashionable flower will have the opportunity of seeing a great many different varieties.

The show will begin next Wednesday, and will close the following Saturday, giving all an opportunity of carefully examining the feathered beauties of the flower kingdom. The admiration of the chrysanthemums is more than a mere fad. It is a passion which has for its object one of the most beautiful of all flowers, and a rare treat is in store for those who attend the show.

In addition to chrysanthemums, there from November 3 to 6 inclusive. All the treat is in store for those who attend the show.

In addition to chrysanthemums, there will be a great many varieties of other flowers on exhibition. Those who are not specially interested in chrysanthemums will have plenty of opportunity to indulge their preferences for other flowers.

An abundance of good music will be furnished during the show, and everything which can add to the enjoyment of the event will be provided. The annual flower show is looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation by thousands each year. They are bigger and better with each year, and the show this week promises to excel either of the two which have gone before.

CHILD MURDERER CARR SICK

FEARED AT FIRST THAT HE HAD TAKEN POISON.

Proved, However, to Be Only an Attack of Indigestion-Sheriff Hymer Says There Is No Fear of Lynching.

William Carr, the child murderer, spent quiet and uneventful day in the Liberty jail yesterday. He had few visitors and his wife was not one of them. He eats as heartily as though his soul was not burdened with the blackest crime that has been committed in this state for years. Every precaution is being taken to prevent him from securing poison or other means by which he may end his life and cheat the gallows. A great deal of excitement was created yesterday afternoon, when, a couple of hours after eating a hearty meal, Carr was taken suddenly sick. The first thought of everybody about the Liberty jail was that he had got hold of some poison by some means and had taken it, but investigation showed that the attack was only indigestion and soon passed area.

gation showed that the attack was only indigestion and soon passed away, after Carr had been treated by a physician.

Carr remains the same callous degenerate he has been ever since his confession.

He seems to take an increasing delight in recounting the details of his awful crime to whomsoever will listen to him.

Mrs. Carr is still at home with her son, who has been sick for some time but who does not betray the slightest signs of feeling or emotion.

Sheriff Hymer does not look for any trouble or any attempt to lynch Carr.

"Carr's confession," said the sheriff last night, "has had a wholesome effect on the minds of the people in this vicinity. If he had persisted in his first filmsy story about giving the child away to the mover, Bill Jones, the people might have been roused to the pitch of lynching him. But his confession and the fact that court will be in session next week and that justice will be meted out to him at the earliest possible moment, has made the people willing to let the law take its course.

"There is no talk of lynching at the present time and the people no longer stand around in little knots on the street corners and discuss the case. Everything is quiet and the law will take its course without interference, in my opinion. We are watching out that Carr does not get any poison or weapons smuggled into his cell with which he might take his own life. I do not think there is any fear on that score.

"Mrs. Carr had quieted down considerably when I saw her to-day. I merely called to see how she was getting along. I found her just as she always is. She was engaged in doing up her housework and did not talk much about the case, except to repeat that she knew nothing about the murder of the child."

Carr has not yet succeeded in getting a lawyer, all the attorneys in Liberty refusing to handle his case. It was stated yesterday that he had never solicited W. J. Courtney, who is defending Mrs. Carr. to become his lawyer, but he has asked an number of others only to be met with refusal from all.

The news of Carr's illness caused all sorts of wild rumors to be put in circulation in the result and the story that the story that
